TRACTION CO'S YEARLY REPORT SHOWS LOSS OF $20,000 HERE

Notwithstanding the fact that the San Francisco-Oakland Terminal railways is estimated to have lost $320,000 in revenue to jitneys, of which amount $20,000 was lost in Richmond, the company was still able to pass to surplus for the year $130,000.

According to Superintendent C. S. Donnelly of the Richmond division the jitneys in this section average $50 a day. There are fifteen of them operating at the present time.

It must be remembered that every dollar of revenue taken from the company by the jitneys was a net loss, as operating expenses could not be reduced by a dollar. With the jitney situation in hand, the company's statement for the present year should be much better.

Analyzing the statement of the company given out yesterday, it will be seen that the gross for the fiscal years ending June 30, 1915, and June 30, 1916, was in neither year as good as in the fiscal year ending June 30, 1914.

Operating and general expenses and taxes were increased in both years. The company, in other words, was confronted with a condition which has been much more keenly felt by other electric and steam roads.

PRESIDENT ISSUES R. R. ULTIMATUM

WASHINGTON, August 19.—In a statement to the American public today President Woodrow Wilson sounded what amounted to an ultimatum to the nation's railroads. It flatly demanded that the country's transportation chiefs accept in trial his plan to avert the threatened walkout of 400,000 railroad workers.

The statement declared that the eight hour day proposition has the sanction of society in its favor and should be adopted even in cases where the work could not be done in that time and where overtime would have to be paid.

"Only through experience," the statement said, "can it be demonstrated whether it is true that the railroads can not continue business by granting the union demands, as it will require experience to show the Interstate Commerce commission the facts."

THE NEW ALIGNMENTS

The recent announcement of a treaty whereby the economic amalgamation of Germany and Austria-Hungary is virtually provided, forecasts somewhat the lines of division throughout the world in the new area upon which we are entering. The announcement is the counter by the Teutonic allies to the entente allies' economic agreement recently drawn up in Paris.

The new Germany treaty provides for a single foreign policy and for what amounts to a custom union. If it is not forbidden by the conquorers—if conquerors there should be—the covenant will practically create a new state with population of 120,000,000 and area of 500,000 square miles.

The predominant partner will, of course, be Germany, who has practically annexed by the war a territory exceeding her own, and 50,000,000 people, who, though now her allies, are in fact her subjects. For this addition Germany can well afford, except for the wound to her pride, to lose all her colonies and exchange all her contiguous conquests in Belgium, France and Russia.

And what Germany gains is even richer potentially than actually. What German methods can accomplish with so mangnificent a prize is, of course, not doubtful. The middle of the twentieth century may have to reckon with a greater Germany in Europe, in area twice the size of France and in populatin approaching that of Russia.

This new empire, if accomplished, will realize the ideal of the Holy Roman empire. It will stretch from the Mediterranean to the North and Baltic seas. Having first been welded and Prussianized, what with its numbers and its wealth, with German science and prodigality of labor, the new empire might some day wage a far more successful war for supremacy than this one.

The amalgamation results form the pressure of twentieth century tendencies, from which the United States is not exempt, despite its already huge bulk. The dream of the separatists is the vainest of idealistic indulgencies. China is doomed to become a huge annex to Japan. The Scandinavian nations, despite their jealousies, are leagued. Belgium, if liberated, will become a French satellite. As for the Balkan states, if they will not league they are doomed to perish.

Bring home the inference. We may strive sonsistently and conscientiously to keep out of Mexico, and to set Mexico upon her feet. But eventually, we shall be drawn into Mexico, and the southern republic, sooner or later, will become a part of our economic system, even if she should continue to choose her own presidents, as Cuba does hers, and have a congress to make her laws.

"Pity the poor maiter," wails the Stockton Mail. "To bad about him, his overwork and underpay! The Knave, of Oakland, who picks up stray bits of spicy news, says that six of the waiters at the Techau Tavern own automobiles. In this class of restaurants waiters make as much as $250 a month, and $200 is only a fair average. Who wouldn't be willing to shoot biscuits and draw corks at $200 per!"

THE AMERICAN LOAN

A few weeks ago France came to the United States for another $100,000,000 and now England is going to cart from American shores another $250,000,000. These last two loans makes the Ammerican aggregate in the neighborhood of a billion and a quarter dollars the warring European nations have borrowed.

This is a greater sum than has ever been loaned by any other neutral people to warring nations in the world's history and constitutes the real reason for the transfer of the money capital of the world from London to New York City. Only the French loans to Russia in times of peace and over a long term of years can surpass in magnitude these American loans to Europe and Canada. We are not only the storehouse and factory for the allies but we are their bankers as well.

In the two years since the war began the United States' exports have exceeded our imports by some three billions dollars, which is fully three times the normal amount. So it seems that in making these great loans to the allies this country is merely lending them their own money, which was sent over here to purchase supplies.

Our farmers and manufacturers and other producers were paid record high prices for what they have sold, so that, financially considered, the United States is making a first-class bargain when it lends the allies money at a fair rate of interest with which to go on buying.

It is an interesting fact, however, that the American people now own as large an amount of foreign obligations as they possess of United States government bonds.

SOMEBODY ELSE TO BLAME

It is characteristic of human nature to seek to find some one, or some thing, to blame for its mistakes, its failures, says the Stockton Mail.

"Never had a chance," "didn't have time," "didn't get to go to school," are made to shoulder a good many fizzles.

"The woman, she"—has been the cry of nearly every Adam's son at some time or another. "Didn't have the right kind of a wife," is an all too common excuse for everything from "boozing" to murder.

And so it is not strange to find, as one does frequently, the suicide also facing this delusion that something, some one else in life, and not himself, was wrong.

"My life has been a mistake. I blame women and horse-racing," said a poor, deluded chap who took poison in San Francisco recently. He thought he was right, too; not suspecting that he convicted himself in the words that follow: "I leave a wife and family and a dear old mother." No man who has "a wife and family and a dear old mother" has any time or right to be following his own self-indulgent impulses whithersoever they may lead. That's the beginning and the end of the trouble—self-indulgence. The man who has faced himself honestly knows quite well that generally no one ever quite succeeds in making him do a thing he didn't want to do, that no one is his master except through his own will.

MAMMOTH LINER WRECKED TO MAKE FILM MORE REALISTIC

W. S. HART IN FORCEFUL SCENE IN THE NEW TRIANGLE KAYBEE PLAY "HELL'S HINGES."

The most stirring scenes of a great maritime disaster are part of the coming Pallas—Paramount photoplay, "The American Beauty," that will be the attraction at the Richmond theater tonight for the last time.

An ocean liner is on fire and as the vast clouds of smoke pour forth, the frantic mobs fight for safety. Some struggle for the life belts. Others attempting to rush the lifeboats are forced back at the pistol's point by the ship's officers. All the signs of a great marine tragedy are evident and as the liner is about to go down the most harrowing scene takes place. Men and women gone temporarily mad begin dropping into the sea from points all over the ship only to go down after a futile struggle. Because of this tragedy Ruth Cleave as played by Myrtle Stedman, the star starts life under a great handicap but afterwards this condition becomes responsible for her rise to fame.

There are some great moments packed with action and suspense in the Ince-Triangle drama, "Hell's Hinges." Among other scenes, two stand out particularly. One is the fight between the tough and the good elements of the town, which results in the temporary victory of the evil forces.

They signalize their triumph by burning down the church. But the evil doers had not reckoned with Blaze Tracy (Wm. S. Hart). When he comes riding in and finds that the church has been destroyed, the misguided minister killed and the woman he loves in danger of insult, his wrath exceeds bounds. He kills Silk Miller, the crafty and treacherous saloon and gambling house keeper, and stands off a whole room full of desperate men while he shoots the wires in two by which the lamps are suspended.

There seems danger that the whole bunch will be consumed in the flames, but Blaze allows them to slink out. In the narrow winding streets, there are scenes of disorder and excitement as the flames of destruction sweep over the whole town.

"Hell's Hinges" is the feature motion picture attraction on the Sunday vaudeville bill at the Richmond theater tomorrow. In addition to this attraction there are a number of high class specialities direct from the playhouses of the larger cities.

Martha Biehle, a clever little singing comedienne heads the list with a repertoire of wit and music that is pleasing to say the least. Then there are Lillian and Marrion, two girls in songs and dances, Collins and Lee, novelty dancers of excellent repute, and a striking little playlet entitled, "The Manicure Girl" produced by Elinor Haber and company. This is a laughable one act production. William Collier and Mae Busch star in the mirthful Keystone comedy, "Wife and Auto Troubles." Mutt and Jeff in the "Big Leagues," is an added attraction.

Willis H. Booth
The ENDORSED Republican Candidate for U. S. Senator

Booth is a constructive, aggressive business man of large experience.

Booth knows California's needs and how to get them for California.

Booth for more than a dozen years has represented civic bodies of California at Washington in the interest of his State.

Booth assisted in getting government aid for Imperial Valley and later helped in the financing of the farmers through their time of stress.

Booth was elected president of the Los Angeles Chamber of Commerce in 1910. In 1911 he was elected president of the Associated Chambers of Commerce of the Pacific Coast.

Booth has made a deep study of Oriental markets and Oriental commercial conditions on the ground and knows at first hand what should be done to secure for California her proper place in any national movement for trade expansion with the far East. In recognition of this specialized knowledge he was made a member of the Foreign Trade Council.

Booth is a firm believer in the fundamental principles of Republicanism and a staunch supporter of the Protective Tariff for the benefit of American industries and labor.

At the Statewide Conference held in San Francisco, July 29th, composed of members of the Republican State Central Committee and all Republican County Central Committees, a resolution endorsing the candidacy of Willis H. Booth for U. S. Senator was unanimously adopted.

A USEFUL PAIN

Richmond People Should Heed Its Warning.

Have you a sharp pain or a dull ache across the smal of your back? Do you realize that it's often a timely sign of kidney weakness? Prompt treatment is a safeguard against more serious kidney troubles. Use Doan's Kidney Pills. Profit by a Richmond resident's experience.

Mrs. W. C. Ardery, 131 Thirteenth St., Richmond, says: "I was troubled considerably with weak kidneys and a lame back. After I sat down and then tried to rise up, a sharp pain caught me in the small of my back. I had to brace my hands on the arms of the chair in order to raise up. I was very nervous and the least annoyance set my nerves right on edge. A friend advised me to try Doan's Kidney Pills and two boxes, which I got at the Richmond Pharmacy, gave me excellent results."

Price 50c, at all dealers. Don't simply ask for a kidney remedy—get Doan's Kidney Pills—the same that Mrs. Ardery had. Foster-Milburn Co., Props., Buffalo, N. Y.—Ad.

NOTES FROM THE PLAYHOUSES

PANTAGES THEATRE (Oakland)

Are we prepared?

We may not have a big army, but its efficiency can be judged any day next week, by a visit to the Oakland Pantages. Following telegrams galore, between Manager Alexander Pantages and General Leonard Wood's office, it was finally decided, only a day ago, that the Presidio soldiers who have in the past given a remarkable example of their drilling and their military efficiency, in "The Outpost," a thrilling army play are to come to Oakland.

A corps of genuine United States army regulars appear for the nonce, not as actors, but as soldiers showing their real work on the stage. The spectacle is one of the most remarkable ever presented on a stage. It shows life in an army camp exactly as it is, the drills, a sham battle, and other exciting details of a soldiers' calling. The men are loaned through the courtesy of Lieutenant Colonel John H. Gardner of the Presidio.

One of the big features of the coming week's bill will be the appearance of George Chooz' latest and most successful musical tabloid, "The Earl and the Girls." Loring Smith, one of New York's cleverest comedians, Charlotte Taylor, and Peggy Parker, a dainty soubrette, support Eddy Buzzell, one of the foremost fun-makers of America, in the list of principals. A chorus of beautiful girls, clever singers and dancers, add to the joy of the occasion.

Every act on the big bill this week will be a star feature. Mabel Naynon, famous as the world's greatest trainer of birds, will offer her noted tropical birds, parrots and paraquets. These birds perform tricks even as trained dogs might. Their intelligence is almost remarkable, and the uncanny ability of the woman trainer in teaching birds that scientists say are almost impossible to teach tricks to is nothing short of astounding.

Grace De Winters, a dainty miss who is comedienne and ventriloquist, too, is another feature on the coming week's bill. She will offer some of the latest of her eastern song successes, and a surprise as well. McCloud and Carp, musical wizards, Dale and Archer, in a Parisian novelty, and "The Secret of the Submarine" will round out the bill.

ORPHEUM THEATRE (Oakland)

Many times the show at the Oakland Orpheum has been dubbed brilliant by the press agent, but the often used word really seems to be about the only proper adjective to use in describing the program billed for appearance at the great Twelfth street house during the coming week. A brilliant comedy sketched called "Petticoats" will head the program and there will also be a brilliant duo in the persons of Chester Spencer and Lola Williams who sing, dance and play, and a brilliant European spectacle by Sylvia Loyal and her Pierrot and last of all a brilliant farce entitled, "A Full House" to be presented by the Orpheum players. "A Full House" was one of the great successes on Broadway in New York last year and the Orpheum people have paid a small fortune for the right to use it one week.

"Petticoats" is an incident in the lives of a number of college girls, and the author has recognized good drama and excellent comedy in an incident that probably has occurred in actual life many and many a time—an indicident that is fundamentally the "Taming of the Shrew." The shrew in Mr. Hymer's sketch happens to be a very delightful young person. There is a young physician whose disregard for the fair denizens of a certain town has become a "red flag" to them. Betty Hastings one day wagers some of her friends that she can compel the elusive young doctor to propose within a very short period of time and the sketch concerns the manner in which she goes about the winning of her wager and the almost disastrous results.

The cast of "Petticoats" is headed by Grace Dunbar Nile, a little actress who has distinguished herself on several occasions. Miss Nile has evidently also succeeded in finding the elsive fountain, for she, too, possesses all of the charms of youth.

The little oddity presented by Sylvia Loyal and her Pierrot is a visualization of one of the "Adventures of Fairyland" with all the charm and wholesomeness that these stories contain.

Chester Spencer and Lola Williams sing, dance and talk, a combination frequently found in vaudeville, but not often expounded in a more capable manner. Mr. Spencer and Miss Williams have solved the problem of method and everything they do is accomplished in their own peculiar style.

A husky man, a man and a boy are the members of the Leo Zarrell & Co. With an amusing ease and sangfroid they blithely execute a series of gymnastic feats that are astonishing and new.

For next week the new Orpheum players will present one of the biggest hits of recent years. This hilarious farce is entitled "A Full House" and is a three-act play of unusual laugh producing qualities. Having had a successful run in New York and Chicago, and running the gauntlet in these cities with a record for laughs to its credit, theatergoers can expect a high class production of a clever play. The cast will include Justina Wayne, Stanley de Wolfe, George P. Webster, Jean Devereaux, Rita Porter, Lucile Webster, George B. Howard, Max Waizman, Charles Yule, Mima Gleason, F. Keenan Wallace, Claude Archer and others.

The Orpheum management announces that mail orders for seats during the Nora Bayes engagement, beginning Sunday, August 27th, are now being received at the box office. Orders accompanied by checks will be filed in the order of their receipt. Miss Bayes has been one of the most brilliant stars in vaudeville and musical comedies in the east, but has never before appeared in vaudeville on the Pacific coast. She is said to be the highest salaried woman on the stage.

ONTORICHMOND CRY MARTINEZ BALL FIENDS

Richmond will be the mecca tomorrow of the Martinez fans and baseball team. The scribes of the county seat have the following to say regarding the game:

"On to Richmond" is the battle cry of the Martinezans.

To Richmond next Sunday. A thousand faithful rooters are wanted by Joe McNamara and his baseball club.

The Martinez team goes to Richmond next Sunday to wipe out the past defeats and that thirteen-inning game of last Sunday. The team has been considerably strengthened and McNamara expects the local boys to come home with the bacon.

Manager McNamara has secured Raby for short, Smith for third base and Wilson for right field, and with "Pop" Arlett, Discoll, and the other regulars Martinez will be a hard team to beat.

The fans know that whenever Richmond and Martinez tie up there's going to be some fun and next Sunday's game is expected to be just as hotly contested as any of the games yet played.

Richmond is going to put its best team on the field and there will be some turnout at the bay city to see the fun; so every person in this city who can arrange to be on hand Sunday wants to be there. One can't afford to miss the second game of the five-game series.
